

How much does indoor fiber optic cable typically cost

Overview

If purchasing just the cable, it can cost about $0.20 to $1 per foot when purchased in bulk, which is usually more than 500 feet.

Key Takeaways

Indoor fiber optic cable typically costs between $1 and $6 per foot at retail, with wholesale prices ranging from $0.09 to $1.52 per foot depending on type and specifications.

Material Costs

The cost of indoor fiber optic cable varies based on fiber type, strand count, and jacket construction. Single-mode fiber (OS2) is generally less expensive per foot than multimode fiber (OM3/OM4), but multimode is preferred for high-speed, short-distance applications like data centers or office networks. Retail prices for indoor cables range from $1 to $6 per foot, while bulk or wholesale purchases can cost $0.09 to $1.52 per foot. A simple 1-core FTTH drop cable may cost around $0.13 per foot, whereas a 288-strand backbone cable can reach $6 per foot. Pre-terminated cables and patch cords are more expensive due to factory termination and connector type.

Installation Costs

If you include installation, costs increase depending on cable length, labor, and complexity. For indoor runs, labor rates typically range from $0.60 to $3.00 per foot, with additional costs for connectors, patch panels, and permits. A basic 1,000-foot indoor single-mode run with minimal termination may total $2,650–$3,100, including materials and labor. Larger or more complex projects, such as multi-story buildings or high-strand-count cables, can significantly increase total costs .

Factors Affecting Price

- Fiber Type: Single-mode vs multimode; multimode is more expensive for high-speed applications.
- Strand Count: More strands increase material cost.
- Jacket Type: Plenum-rated or LSZH jackets for indoor safety add to cost.
- Pre-Termination: Factory-terminated cables reduce labor but increase material cost.
- Project Size: Longer runs and multiple drops increase total cost.
- Local Labor Rates: Urban areas may have higher installation costs than suburban or rural locations .

Summary

For indoor fiber optic cable alone, expect $1–$6 per foot retail or $0.09–$1.52 per foot wholesale. Including installation, a typical indoor project can range from $2,500 to $7,000 depending on cable length, fiber type, and labor complexity. Choosing pre-terminated cables can reduce labor costs but increases upfront material expenses. Proper planning of fiber type, strand count, and installation method is essential to optimize both performance and budget .
