Key Takeaways

The price of Greek-type vibration optical cables varies widely depending on specifications, materials, and quantity, typically requiring a direct quote from suppliers.Overview

Greek-type vibration optical cables are specialized fiber optic cables designed to withstand mechanical stress, vibration, and harsh industrial environments. They are commonly used in industrial automation, robotics, renewable energy installations, and control systems. These cables often feature PUR or rubber sheathing, LSZH jackets, and shielded conductors to ensure durability and signal integrity under vibration and movement .

Price Range

- Prices are not standardized and depend on factors such as cable length, conductor size, shielding, jacket material, and certification standards.
- For industrial-grade vibration-resistant optical cables, bulk orders or custom configurations can range from €5 to €30 per meter, though exact pricing must be confirmed with suppliers .
- Greek suppliers like Dimoulas Special Cables S.A. offer competitive pricing and can provide custom quotes for both small and large projects .

- European distributors, including SEPO-Leitungen and Hengtong Optic-Electric, also provide ready-to-connect fiber optic assemblies and can supply price quotes based on specific requirements .

How to Obtain Accurate Pricing

- Contact suppliers directly: Provide details such as cable type, length, voltage rating, and environmental requirements.
- Request a formal quote: Many suppliers, including Dimoulas and European distributors, respond with tailored pricing for your project.
- Consider bulk orders: Larger quantities often reduce the per-meter cost.
- Check certifications: Ensure the cable meets industrial standards like IEC, BS EN, or specific fire-resistance ratings if required .

Recommended Suppliers

- Dimoulas Special Cables S.A. – Leading Greek supplier for industrial and vibration-resistant cables .
- Hellenic Cables – Major European manufacturer with a wide range of optical and power cables .
- European distributors – SEPO-Leitungen, Hengtong Optic-Electric, and Eva Cable provide international supply and custom assemblies . For precise pricing, it is best to submit a detailed inquiry to these suppliers, as the cost depends heavily on the technical specifications and order volume.
